A Message From the County Executive

We know that during troubling times, communities preserve dignity and compassion by caring for their most vulnerable family members, friends and neighbors. We are pleased to present the Local Children’s Board Community Plan for Children, Youth and Families as a roadmap for how public agencies and the private sector can work together to improve the quality of life of its residents, even in the midst of uncertainty. The tenets of this framework are, at their core, the strengths of our county and its residents. Education, diversity and access to quality resources for healthcare and wellness are those areas in which our community investment has established Howard County as one of the nation’s great places to grow, live and thrive.

The plan’s goals and strategies align with HoCo S.T.R.I.V.E.S. (Strategies To Reach an Inclusive Vision and Equitable Solutions), an education initiative that supports children’s mental and behavioral health programs, academic, social and emotional learning supports and community capacity building. This initiative provides greater depth to our deployment of attention and resources in support of children’s social and educational success. We believe that education is enhanced by encouraging regular attendance and emphasizing workforce development opportunities. We know that diversity’s real value is reached when barriers to equity are eliminated in systems and their entry points.

Moreover, we affirm that behavioral health resources can help families in reducing the impact of maladies like substance misuse disorder, suicidal ideation, homelessness and more. Through collaboration, training and accountability, we will create new pathways for all residents to experience the benefits of living in this great county – health, stability and mobility. I want to thank our team at the Department of Community Resources and Services, the Local Children’s Board and all of our community partners for their time and expertise in developing this important framework.

We look forward to joining you for the work and success of the future.

Truly Yours,

Dr. Calvin Ball, County Executive

A Message From DCRS and the Local Children’s Board

On behalf of the Howard County Local Children’s Board (LCB) we are proud to present our Community Plan for Children, Youth and Families. Howard County is an immensely diverse community, racially, economically and socially. As a community, we pride ourselves on providing a vast array of opportunities for our children, youth and families to thrive – yet we recognize that for many, these opportunities remain out of reach. This plan reflects the seeds of change. The goals discussed on the pages that follow demonstrate our commitment to creating an equitable, healthy, safe and economically stable Howard County where all of our children, youth and families thrive.

We believe that together, through public and private partnerships, interagency coordination and community support, we can collectively grow and nurture these seeds of change. We understand that this work is complex and will take time. To that end, we shaped this process by investing time in engaging in an inclusive, yearlong effort to develop a common agenda and commitment to creating pathways forward for our most vulnerable. This document represents the beginning of a multi-sector, collaborative approach developed to foster the use of data-driven strategies to achieve a set of shared results. We are invested in the promise of our community and will work together to invest in and achieve results that will measurably improve people’s lives.

In the face of the COVID-19 global pandemic, the actions outlined within this plan are more critical than ever. This is not just the Local Children’s Board’s plan – this is our community’s plan for the children, youth and families living in Howard County. It will take all of us to accomplish the bold goals and transformational results it envisions. We invite our full community to join us in the quest for a more equitable future for all.

About DCRS

The Department of Community Resources and Services (DCRS) is Howard County’s Human Service Agency. The Department is comprised of nine offices. We work to address needs across the lifespan in a culturally competent and proficient manner and promote full inclusion for individuals living with disabilities.

About this Plan

The Local Children’s Board (LCB) is committed to creating equitable services and opportunities across the county, especially for those who are the most vulnerable. In 2018, the LCB developed the Equity Report using qualitative and quantitative data to tell the story of opportunity, across race, ethnicity and income levels in Howard County. This Community Plan for Children, Youth and Families draws on data from that report and other county needs assessments to lay out an actionable plan for collective impact that ensures ALL children, youth and families in Howard County are safe, healthy and have equitable opportunities to thrive. We are grateful to our Board, Guiding Coalition and community stakeholders who helped to inform and shape this plan.

This is a living plan that is designed to be nimble and responsive to the changing needs in our community. In February 2020, HCLCB held the first of what will be an ongoing series of community conversations to invite feedback on this plan. In response to COVID-19, we halted these in-person gatherings and hope to resume them as soon as it is safe to do so.

Strategic Priorities

1. Affordable and Quality Education and Training

Over the next 5 years, Howard County Local Children’s Board is focusing on affordable and quality education and training. We will invest in setting children and youth on a life-long path to success by working to improve early education access and opportunities, decreasing rates of chronic absenteeism and increasing access to job training.

2. Increase Inclusiveness, Awareness and Coordination of Resources to Meet the Needs of Each Community

Howard County is a caring community that is committed to making its resources available to all residents. These connections are difficult to make for some families with access challenges, even for the most basic needs. By increasing awareness of resources for food, housing and healthcare within hard-to-reach communities, we can support families’ efforts to increase their self-sufficiency and financial stability through education, training and affordable, quality childcare.

3. Access to Affordable and Quality Behavioral Health Care

Behavioral health care for all residents in Howard County is a major focus for the county. Many behavioral health indicators in Howard County are trending in the wrong direction. With this priority, the HCLCB will reduce youth rates of hopelessness and suicidal ideation while addressing the effects of intergenerational traumas by increasing access to mental health services.
Youth who engage in substance abuse are more likely to drop out of school and consider suicide. Children and youth who have social and emotional support learn vital coping strategies and positive ways of managing life challenges, which improves their overall health, well-being and resiliency.

A 2016 study of 10,000 adolescents found that two-thirds of those who developed alcohol or substance use disorders experienced at least one mental health disorder.

Binge drinking: 5 or more drinks on one occasion for males, 4 or more drinks on one occasion for females.
Access to Affordable and Quality Behavioral Health Care

Declining youth behavioral health is a silent crisis. In Howard County, one in five high school students seriously considered committing suicide. Youth depression affects growth, development, school performance, engagement and relationships. Howard County is at a critical point in youth behavioral health and does not have enough services or supports to meet the need. Without adequate mental and behavioral health services and supports, our youth will continue to struggle.

Between 2014 and 2017, suicide was the leading cause of death for ages 15-19 in Howard County

Affordable and Quality Education and Training

Early learning is critical to establishing healthy habits and knowledge that put children on a path to success. The cost of childcare in Howard County is one of the top three highest household expenses. The high and increasing cost of childcare leads to inequitable outcomes for children from low-income areas. These children are left without access to early learning opportunities that leads to significant achievement gaps and fewer opportunities to succeed throughout life.

Children who received early childhood services:

- Have higher scores on cognitive, reading, and math tests;
- Are more than twice as likely to attend a four-year college and to delay parenthood; and
- Are five times more likely to be law abiding adults than those who did not.

Affordable and Quality Education and Training

It is critical for youth to obtain a high school diploma to achieve success after high school. Regular class attendance is essential for success in school and life. Research reports that chronic absenteeism is one of the most accurate predictors of high school graduation and post secondary completion. One to two weeks of absence per semester significantly decreases the probability of a student graduating. Good attendance is a key first step to improve student learning and academic performance.

Chronic Absenteeism: Missing 10% or more of school days due to absence for any reason, both excused and unexcused.

Class attendance is eight times more predictive of class failure than test scores.

For many children in Howard County, getting the nutrients and energy needed to grow and learn is a day-to-day challenge. Not having enough healthy food impacts a child’s physical and mental well-being as well as their ability to achieve academically. In order for all Howard County residents to thrive, they must have access to nutritious food.

Increase Inclusiveness, Awareness and Coordination of Resources to Meet the Needs of Each Community

The average cost of living in Howard County for a household of four is $101,772. This threshold often places families in a position to make tough choices about investing in educational supports for their children and paying bills. Additionally, the stress of financial concerns on a family leads to instability in the home environment, which impacts academic performance and social/emotional well-being. Two-generation, early interventions helps families achieve financial and educational stability that allows parents and children to thrive together.

Youth need assistance obtaining a high school diploma or GED and occupational skills training. When these opportunities are provided, youth experience increased income, security, self-confidence, mental health and personal development. Youth need preparation and nurturing to have a bright and productive future. Without this foundation, youth not only suffer today but throughout life as they are more likely to depend on public services, abuse substances and take part in illicit activities.

High school graduates are more likely to be employed, make higher taxable income and aid in job generation.
