WHEREAS, the COVID-19 pandemic has impacted every aspect of life across the world and, because of its extensive preparedness, once Howard County had its first case, Howard County took decisive action on early closures to prevent the spread of COVID-19; and

WHEREAS, with the community’s cooperation and support, the COVID-19 impact was mitigated, though not without tragic loss; and

WHEREAS, we have created a plan for Reopening Innovatively, Safely, and Effectively called “HoCo RISE” that is intended to operate within the framework laid out by Maryland Governor Larry Hogan and which uses data to guide decision-making around reopening and, if necessary, when to loosen restrictions; and

WHEREAS, Howard County cannot reopen further than the State Executive Orders mandate; and

WHEREAS, despite Howard County’s alignment with the State, businesses still have restrictions, school systems’ decisions vary per county, and many services are curtailed, all while uncertainties with the global pandemic remain; and

WHEREAS, in Howard County, this health crisis has forced organizations, businesses, and people to live, work, and play differently, which has meant finding new ways to operate, digitizing paper-based processes and modernizing operations to limit or eliminate in-person contact; and

WHEREAS, the global pandemic has also unmasked existing challenges such as access to healthcare, services, social supports, workforce training, and housing; and

WHEREAS, economic impacts continue as public and private entities grapple with how to thrive in this new environment where most federal aid and programs have ended or will culminate by the end of 2020 and there is little indication of what federal support might be available in the new year; and
WHEREAS, we are at a pivotal point in the pandemic and to both prepare for a continued COVID-19 response and to strengthen the community for long-term, this calls for the establishment of the HoCo RISE Collaborative; and

WHEREAS, the purpose of the HoCo RISE Collaborative is to develop and provide key recommendations to ensure that every business, organization, and resident can have the opportunity to thrive in every setting; and
